

Sempra Named to Dow Jones Sustainability North America Index for 12th Consecutive Year

December 21, 2022

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 21, 2022 /PRNewswire/ -- Sempra (NYSE: SRE) (BMV: SRE) today announced it has been named to the Dow Jones Sustainability North America Index (DJSI North America) for the 12th consecutive year. The company was recognized as a high performer in the utilities sector and achieved 100th percentile scores in the policy influence, information security and/or cybersecurity and water-related risk categories.

"As the owner of one of the largest energy networks in North America, we recognize the importance of making new infrastructure investments to advance energy security, future economic growth and the development of a lower-carbon society," said Trevor Mihalik, executive vice president and chief financial officer at Sempra. "This recognition is a testament to our employees' positive impact on the environment and their dedication to safety and operational excellence."

Sempra is committed to maintaining its position as a leader among U.S. energy infrastructure companies in the areas of environmental, social and governance (ESG) performance as described in its annual corporate sustainability report.

DJSI North America, a leading benchmark for corporate sustainability, recognizes the top 20% of sustainability performers among the largest 600 U.S. and Canadian companies in the S&P Global Broad Market Index based on long-term economic, environmental and social criteria.

Sempra's three growth platforms – Sempra California, Sempra Texas and Sempra Infrastructure – are strategically positioned to serve the growing needs of consumers in key markets in North America and around the world, while staying at the forefront of innovation and integrating cleaner forms of energy for the benefit of customers. Sempra's value proposition comes to life through its commitment to sustainable business practices across its family of companies, with a view toward making a positive impact in every market it serves.
